

Mr Paganini is a songwriter with a taste for the dark and grotesque as much as the theatrical.

With a baritone and deep timbre, Mr Paganini has one of those voices that demands any listener's attention. His compositions include picking guitar, dark, gravelly vocals, and musical inspiration ranging from mad cabarets to the soft-spoken folk and dark poetry.

In the last two years Mr Paganini has released as an independent artist two full length albums and 5 singles tracks collecting more than 50k streams on Spotify.

His debut album 'Rhymes of perdition' evokes the sound and atmospheres of the Americana tradition, from gothic country to Denver Sound and grunge.

In 2022 Mr Paganini founded a collective of artists known as Paganini Caravan and this experience led to the creation of the urban orchestra 'Paganini Caravan'. Hence the title of the second album, 'La Carovana', released on December 6th 2024 and presented at CSOA La Strada in Rome on March 27th the same year.

Combining musical influences from around the world ranging from blues to mad cabarets, ragtime to balkan-punk, the 'gutter-jazz' band's material lends itself perfectly to a live setting, featuring a great deal of sing-along chorus chants, melodic improvisation and long rhythmic breaks.

Rhymes of perdition is a project of 8 original songs Mr Paganini released on April 2024. Following the example of famous predecessors such as Woody Guthrie with Dust Bowl Ballads (1940), it is a 'concept-album', achieved through a single central narrative and theme.

The album was recorded in 2024 at Mob Studios (Rome, Italy) and it's the first work produced by the Paganini Caravan Records.

Many musicians gave their contribution to this project, included Valentina Del Re, talented young Italian violinist passed in 2025 who was known for her work with artists such as Ennio Morricone, Asaf Avidan, and the orchestra of the TV show Propaganda Live.

The recording process was almost entirely based on an acoustic approach: the acoustic picking or strumming guitar and the gritty voice are accompanied by dobro, violins, drums, banjo, harmonica, whistling, and acoustic bass.

The album was premiered live in Rome, Italy, at 'Altroquando', on April 12th 2024.

Mr Paganini tells the life and the journey of a man who left his father's land in search of fortune. He came to United States sure that the streets were paved with gold. There he suddenly understood that he was asked to paved them. The protagonist tries to rediscover his roots but he realizes that the world he remembered no longer exists. Defeated, he tries unsuccessfully to conform, forgetting his dreams and abandoning the search for himself.

Throughout the songs, the encounter with the devil recurs several times, representing the latent flame that drives the protagonist to 'dare the impossible', to pursue his dreams even at the expense of the rules that society imposes on us.

The author addresses issues of immigrants and the working poor in his music and public statements, focusing on the challenges of economic hardship, inequality, and the often-overlooked contributions of immigrant labor to America's past and present. His work portrays the struggle for a life of decency and dignity for these groups, critiquing policies that harm the poor and marginalized, and advocating for compassion and solidarity.

The cover is inspired by 'Devil at the Crossroad', film about the short, mysterious life of blues legend, Robert Johnson, who was said to have made a deal with the Devil at a crossroads in rural Mississippi.

'The Caravan (La Carovana)' is the first Italian album released by Mr Paganini with his band. Combining musical influences from around the world, The Paganini Caravan is an eclectic band based in Rome (Italy) which claims 'gutter-jazz', world music, songwriting, ragtime, cabaret, vaudeville, blending the old with the new in all its music. The band was founded in 2023 by the songwriter Mr Paganini from the experience of an independent collective of artists and musicians.

The powerful raspy voice of Mr Paganini, the honky-tonk tone of the gritty piano and trumpet or trombone, the energy of their performances, the carnival and 1930s-era-cabaret mood of the shows, all together forming a keenly individual musical universe.

The project injects blues and early jazz into an underground mood to forge a distinctive urban sound.

The band's material lends itself perfectly to a live setting, featuring a great deal of sing-along chorus chants, melodic improvisation and long rhythmic breaks.

The Paganini Caravan was founded in 2002 in Rome as an artistic collective of independent artists and professional.

Its mission is to spread the message of the universal call of art, especially music, as a job.

Thanks to the support of professionals such as directors, writers, songwriters, sound engineers, etc, the collective was able to offer facilities for all the artists. So far Paganini Caravan has organized over 90 events since its birth, promoting social gathering, enhancement of the territory and cultural development.

The name Paganini Caravan, come from 'You'll Have to Swing It (Mr. Paganini)', song written by Sam Coslow for and strongly associated with Ella Fitzgerald, and 'Caravan', by Juan Tizol e Duke Ellington.
