

Founder and leader of the band, songwriter, composer and performer, Mr. Paganini has one of those harsh, deep and baritone voices that demands any listener's attention. He is a songwriter and composer with a taste for the dark and grotesque as much as the theatrical.

His compositions include picking guitar, gravelly vocals, and musical inspiration ranging from mad cabarets to the soft-spoken folk and dark poetry.

His repertoire evokes the sound and the atmospheres of the Americana tradition, from the Denver sound to Early Jazz. Mr Paganini also embodies the spirit of Beat poetry through his gritty, jazz-infused musical style, evocative lyrics about outcasts and carnivalesque characters, and his spoken-word performances, often seen as a modern-day Ginsberg or Kerouac in his raw, improvisational, and darkly humorous storytelling, influencing many with his unique blend of blues, jazz, and theatrical performance art.

In 2022 he founded a collective of artists and this experience led to the creation of the urban orchestra 'Paganini Caravan', a project of original music rooted in early jazz, gothic rock and post punk.

In the last two years Mr Paganini has released two full length albums and 5 singles tracks collecting more than 50k streams on Spotify. The song 'Fuori i secondi' (Seconds out of the ring), it's in the soundtrack of the film 'Nino Benvenuti: un campione per amico' directed by Gianni Virgadola. The new album 'E tu la chiami poesia' will be released on March 26th 2026 during a concert at Club Gala Hala, in Lubiana, Slovenia. The release party will be then in Italy, Rome, at CSOA La Strada on March 28th.

Combining musical influences from around the world, The Paganini Caravan is an eclectic band based in Rome (Italy) which claims 'gutter-jazz', world music, songwriting, ragtime, cabaret, vaudeville, blending the old with the new in all its music. The band was founded in 2023 by the songwriter Mr Paganini from the experience of an independent collective of artists and musicians.

The powerful raspy voice of Mr Paganini, the honky-tonk tone of the gritty piano and trumpet or trombone, the energy of their performances, the carnival and 1930s-era-cabaret mood of the shows, all together forming a keenly individual musical universe.

The project injects blues and early jazz into an underground mood to forge a distinctive urban sound.

The band's material lends itself perfectly to a live setting, featuring a great deal of sing-along chorus chants, melodic improvisation and long rhythmic breaks.

Alberto Damieto - Drums, Percussion
Luca Libonati - Sound Engineer, Drums, Percussion
Claudio Mancini - Arranger, Electric Guitar
Claudio Montalto - Trumpet and Flugelhorn
Marcello Tirelli - Accordion, Piano, Keyboard

Songwriter, poet, and storyteller, the songwriting by Morgana is characterized by a powerful fusion of poetry and dark music, with lyrics that explore themes of religion, politics, love, and rebellion which maintain a sense of mystery.

Co-founder of the collective, singer, and lyricist of the Paganini Caravan, she often repurposes her poems into songs, and her work is noted for its visionary and idealistic tone. She seeks to create authentic and unique feelings in music, believing that the meaning of a song is ultimately given by the listener.

Her harsh voice giving the sense of solemnity in her words, her gipsy and western style on the stage, her unconventional approach to the music, make of her a key figure in the band scenario.

From La Escuela Nacional de Música Narciso Garay de Panama to the National Accademy Santa Cecilia of Rome, Juan Carlos Sue De Leon is the main drummer and percussionist of the Paganini Caravan.

Working as timbalero as well as marimba player, Sue De Leon is a dynamic drummer known for his innovative and influential style that blends classical music, afro-latin and jazz. His unique approach to the drums is characterized by syncopation, crazy fills, and unpredictable rhythms that helped define the band's sound.

VINNIE LA GIOIA

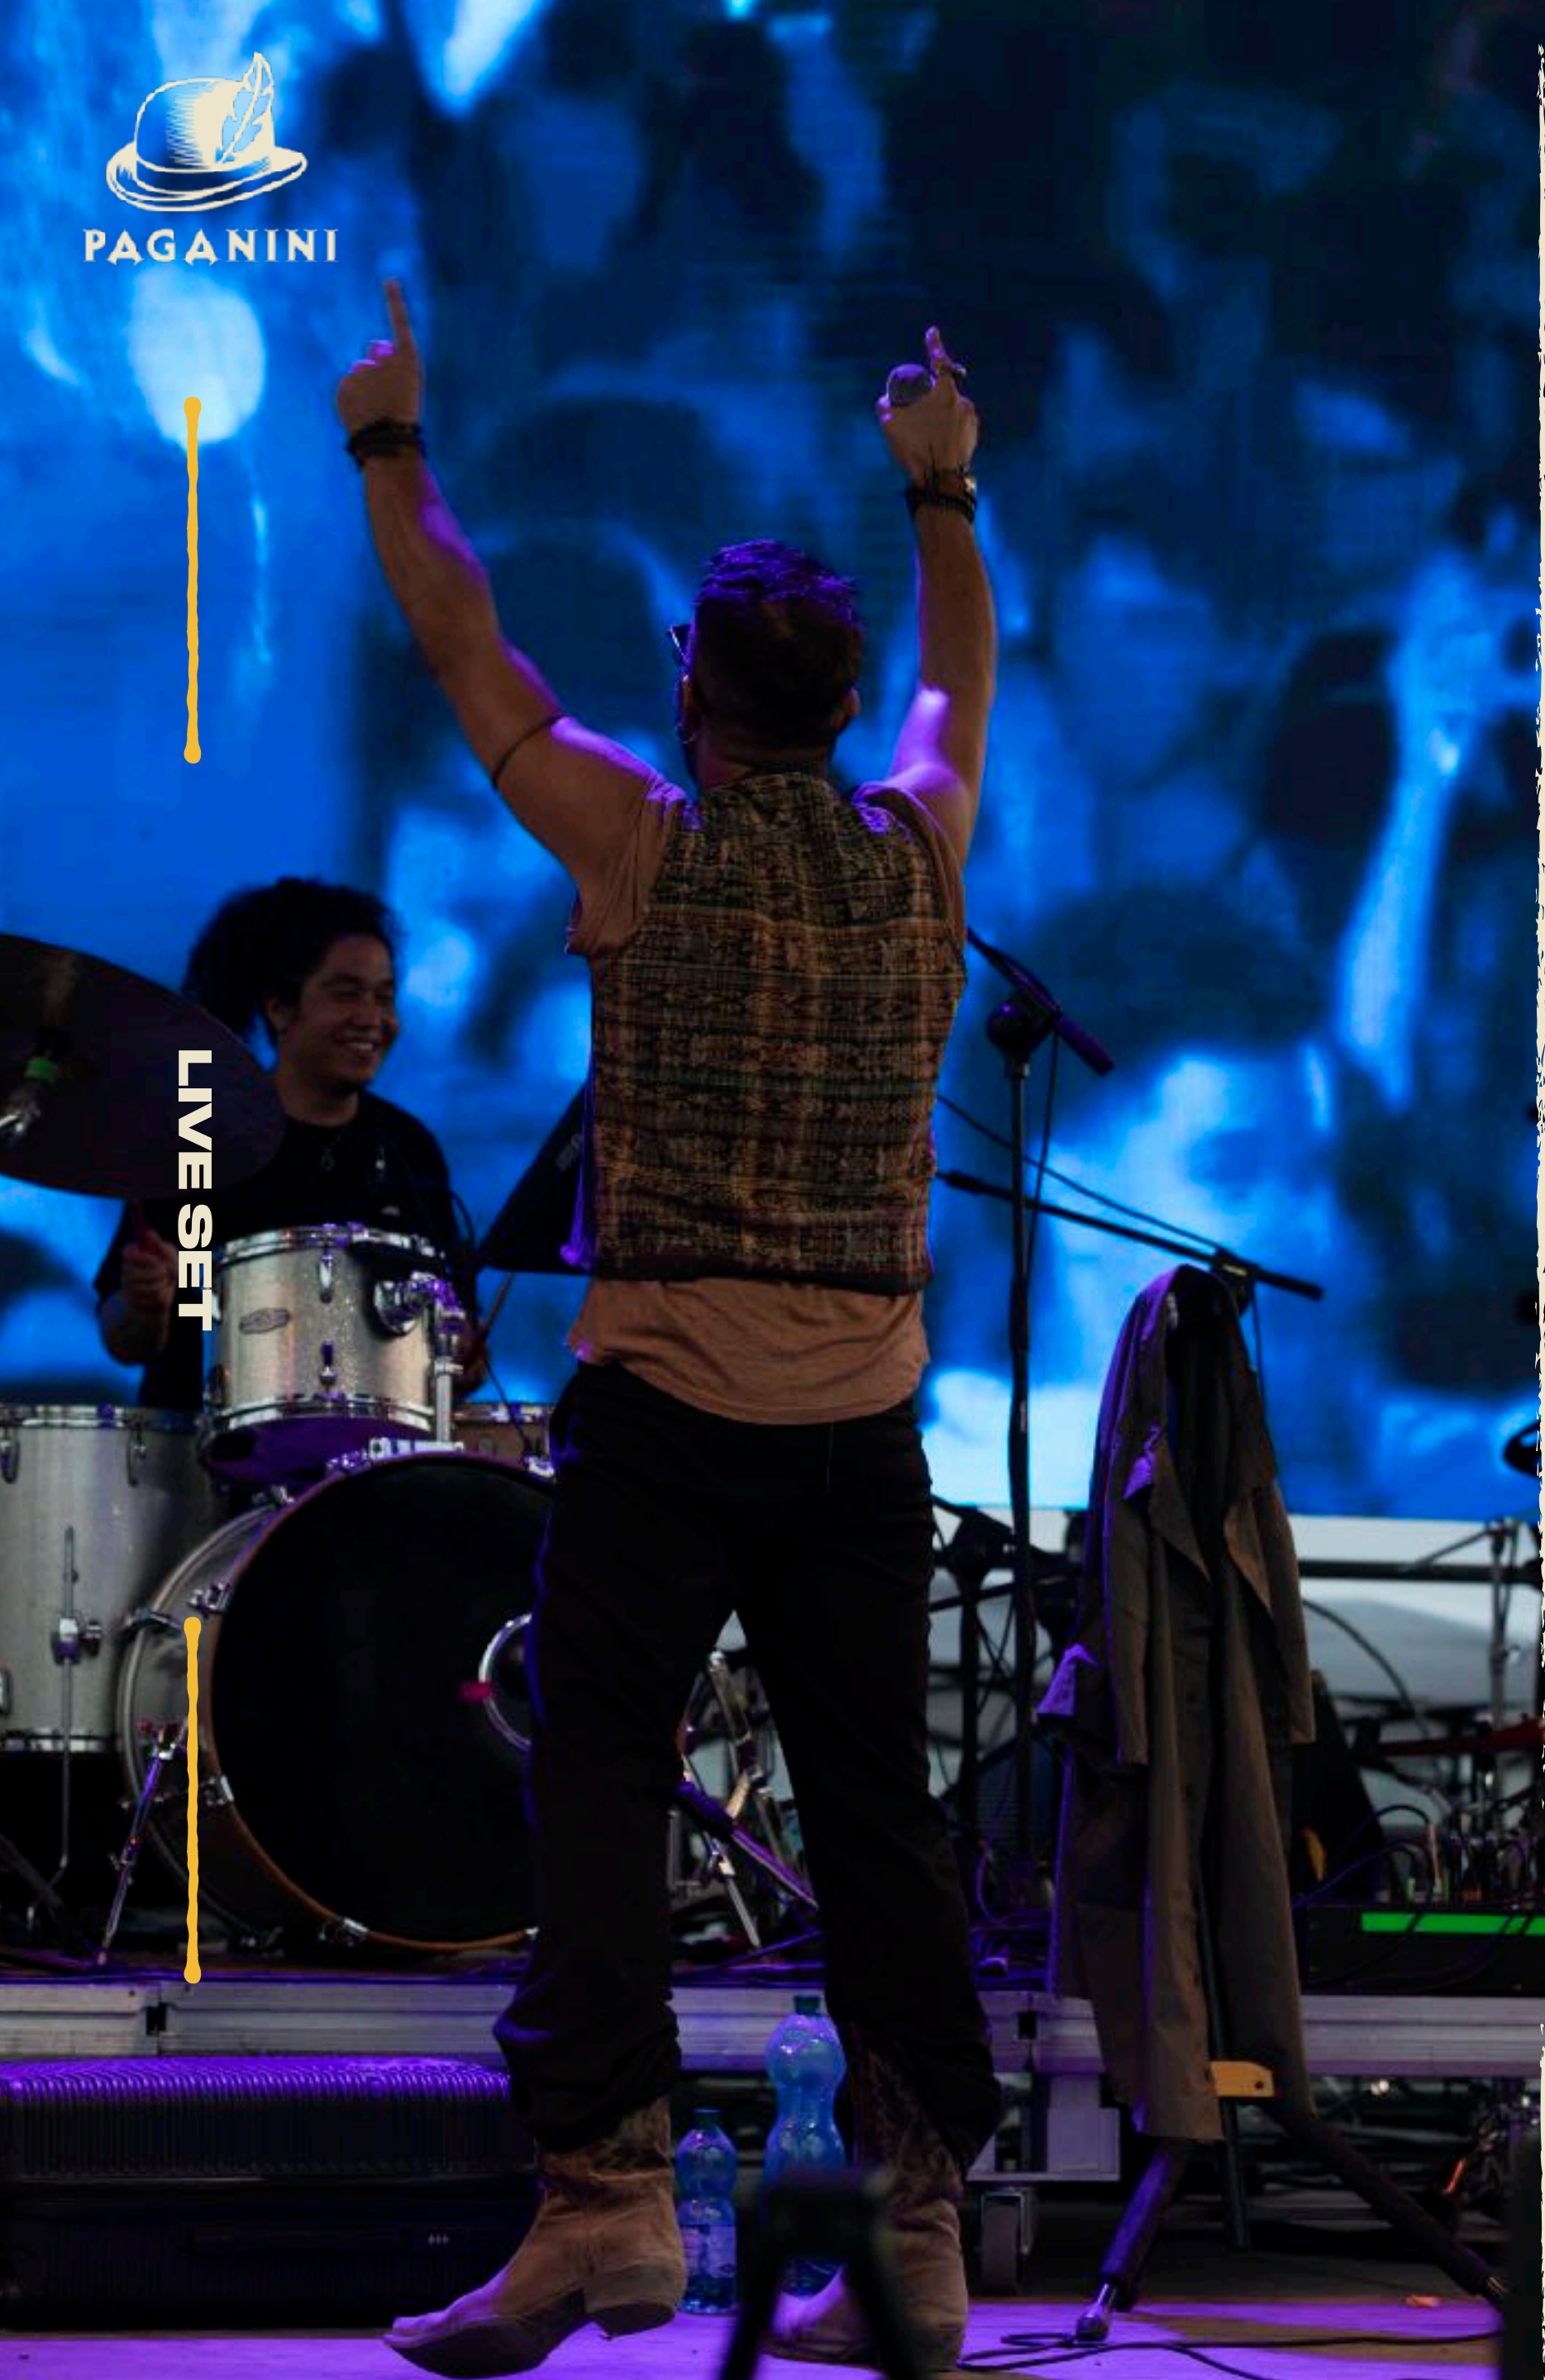

Screenwriter, writer, playwright, jazz manager and art director, Vinnie La Gioia is a founder of the collective and the band Paganini Caravan, arranger and bass player.

As bass player his approach incorporates fretless bass, harmonics, and a blend of genres like funk, jazz, and rock.

Gathering film influence into music, as arranger he works on the scene as in a movie set, turning atmospheres into photographs and stories into notes.
