ORACLE HANDS

Post-metal from Oldenburg, Germany, est. 2021

"Trapped in a shell, I cease to exist, with broken bones, tattered my flesh." A rhythmical stream of rough, aggressive vocals delivers bleak lyrics over incessantly driving, occasionally floating guitars, all on top of a quaking foundation of a gnarly, distorted bass and versatile drums.

Four musicians from Oldenburg, Lower Saxony, formed Oracle Hands in 2021. Drawing on their experience with a variety of grind, punk and death metal bands from their local scene, they have forged a unique sonic alloy of heavy blasts, haunting melodies, memorable choruses, and walls of harsh noise.

In 2023, the band released their first demo and played their initial well-acclaimed gigs. Oracle Hands recorded their full-length debut album, Dirge for the Doomed, at the infamous Tonmeisterei Oldenburg in February 2024. The Album was released on April 25th 2025 and received critical acclaim throughout many reviews. After a line-up change on the drums the band is currently writing new songs and available for gigs.
