

MICHAEL MADDEN

Heartland rock & Americana singer-songwriter based in Munich

For promoters, venues, festivals and media

BIO

Michael Madden lives in Munich, but his mind is somewhere else. Writing heartland rock and Americana with an Irish storyteller's eye, the characters and scenarios of his songs help uncover the thin line connecting our present struggles with our past.

It's the same line that links Bruce Springsteen with Bob Dylan, Jason Isbell with Johnny Cash, and Jesse Welles with John Prine. Drawing from their directness and lyrical detail, his songs move between regret and hope, doubt and defiance, and the search for steady ground in unsettled times.

Armed with just a guitar, he brings an energetic presence to his live shows. Understanding that his music is folk music at heart, he wants to connect directly with his audiences: whether that's in an hushed music hall or a rowdy barroom. His debut EP is planned for release at the end of 2026.
